

Minneapolis is pluming herself over her growing importance as a wheat market, and no wonder. The rapidity of her development is extraordinary, and would be almost incredible were it not that her claims are fully sustained by the figures. In 1879 the receipts of wheat in that city were 7,514,364 bushels; the next year they had risen to 10,264,100; in 1881 the total was 16,317,500; in 1883, 22,124,715; and in 1884, 28,322,820, while the receipts thus far this year greatly exceed the record for the same period of 1884. More wheat is now received in Minneapolis than in Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Boston or any other city, East of West, except New York, and if the ratio of 1885 thus far is maintained until December 31, the total receipts of the year will equal those of the metropolis, which is the great export market, during 1884. This immense business is the growth of only a few years, and the marked shifting of business relations which it involves is only another evidence of the surprising commercial changes which are constantly going on in this country.

Again we are reminded of one cause of the continued depression of business in the Old World. The maintenance of large military establishments even in a time of peace is a costly matter. Taxation is enormous. At the same time, the productions of a nation are materially diminished by the diversion of hundreds of thousands of vigorous young men from useful and gainful industry. They are producing nothing to exchange for others' products, and commerce is restricted. They do not help to give an impetus to trade. Their powers are employed in fitting themselves for a work of destruction on the battle field. In consequence Europe is looking to this country to furnish the first impulse to renewed activity in trade. Free trade Great Britain and protectionist Germany alike depend on the United States to lift business out of the slough. And why? Because they realize that we have no costly standing army to call annually for hundreds of thousands of recruits from our energetic young men. All of them can be workers if they will, and the country has no occasion to wring hundreds of millions of dollars from the people by burdensome taxation.

Ours has been a favored land during the closing year. Other lands have been scourged with war, or now behold the sullen clouds of strife gathering in the heavens above their heads, but we have enjoyed peace. Not a few nations have been chastened by pestilence, but we have been exempt from plague. Rich crops have crowned the labors of our husbandmen, and industry, which has been for a season languid, has begun to revive. Misrule has not irritated our nation, nor anarchy bred alarm. Religion has not lost the spirit of proselytism nor been shorn of its benignity. Discoveries in science and inventions in the arts have broadened the domains of knowledge, and promoted the comfort of society. Schools, colleges, and newspapers have stimulated thought and diffused information, and ignorance and barbarism have been held in check.

There are in the United States exclusive of Alaska, 260,000 Indians, fully half of whom have as yet declined to commit themselves to the life of the farmer. Exclusive of the lands cultivated by the five civilized tribes, the number of acres in cultivation by the Indians during the year was 248,241, an increase of 18,473 over last year's figures.

The Virginia Legislature meets next Monday. The Democrats have a majority on joint ballot. The most prominent candidates for United States Senator are Congressmen John R. Barbour and John W. Daniel.

The New York Sun declares that the President ought to abolish the so-called Bureau of Education as it is a costly and pretentious humbug.

THE G. A. R.

Preparations for the Next National Encampment in San Francisco.

At a late meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Council of Administration of the G. A. R., the Commander-in-Chief presented a communication from the committee at San Francisco having in charge the subject of the meeting of the next annual encampment, recommending that the date for holding the encampment be fixed between the 25th of July and the 15th of August. Upon motion it was unanimously voted that the meeting be held between those two dates—the exact date to be fixed by the Commander-in-Chief. The matter of transportation to the place of holding the next National Encampment having been by the last encampment referred to the Council of Administration, it was directed that the Commander-in-Chief make all necessary arrangements in accordance with the directions of the National encampment so far as trunk lines only are concerned, and that the matter of local roads and local rates be left wholly under charge of the several departments.

Senator Cullom's Report.

Senator Cullom says that he has his report upon interstate commerce pretty well along and will have it completed before the meeting of the Senate. It will be the most elaborate and important document that was ever submitted upon this subject, as it will review the history of the transportation question in the United States and show the growth of our railroad system and its development. Another chapter will be devoted to the discussion of the relations of the States and federal authorities to railroads and the power of Congress to legislate in regard to interstate commerce. In this branch of the report will be included all of the decrees of the State, District and Circuit Courts and the Supreme Court of the United States relating to interstate commerce and the authority of Congress to regulate it. Much attention will be given to a description of the various systems of State railway control and the operation of railway legislation in this and other countries, the study of which brings the committee to the conclusion that Congress not only has the power to regulate interstate commerce, but must necessarily do so in order to prevent discrimination, because of lack of uniformity in State legislation on this subject.

The report will also declare that it is in the power of Congress to pass a law for the regulation of interstate commerce without providing some special means for the settlement or arbitration of the disputes that are constantly arising under it, and to see to the enforcement of its provisions. Senator Cullom therefore recommends the appointment of a commission of five, to have in charge the entire railway system, with much wider powers than are now exercised by the present Railroad Commissioner. The committee consists of Messrs Cullom, of Illinois; Miller, of New York; Platt, of Connecticut; Gorman, of Maryland; and Harris, of Tennessee.

The Silver Problem.

The New York Post's Washington correspondent has interviewed ex-Senator Hill, of Colorado, Congressman Warner, S. Dana, Horton and others. Hill says: "I have no doubt the President will recommend the suspension of silver coinage. The immediate effect will be to lower the value of silver bullion so as to render the resumption of silver coinage all the more difficult. Congress will do nothing," said the ex-Senator, emphatically. "We have strength enough to insure that. Of all the plans that have been proposed for a compromise, none of them is satisfactory to my mind. The proper policy is to wait. The silver problem will settle itself. With so many uncertainties as to what the future will bring, it seems exceedingly unwise to attempt at this time to finally settle our monetary policy with regard to silver. It will not be possible to stop the coinage of silver this session, in my judgment." Warner predicts coinage of silver will not be discontinued.

The public debt shows an increase for the month of November of $4,487,000.

BISMARCK ON HOGS.

He is Now Quarrelling With the Pig Element of Other Countries.

F. Raine, United States Consul General at Berlin, reports that the German government has again prohibited the importation of hogs from Russia and Austria-Hungary. "Numerous hogs imported," says the report, "were suffering from diseases of the mouth and feet, and had to be killed to prevent contagion. It is known that the hog disease is spreading upon the peninsula of the Balkan and in Italy, and the Prussian Minister of Agriculture has ordered that in future no hogs shall be allowed to cross the boundary from any country unless a satisfactory certificate is produced."

The Islands of the Pacific.

One of the most important clauses in President Cleveland's forthcoming message will be in relation to the protection of the islands of the Pacific Ocean and the neutrality of the great powers respecting these workings. Attention has been called to the matter by the recent overt act of the German Government in seizing one of the Caroline Islands. Many of the independent isles of Polynesia fear that they may fall prey to the avaricious aggrandizement of Germany or some of the European nations, and appeals for protection have been made to the United States. The foreign policy of this Government is well known to be against extending its territory by conquest, and the inhabitants of the isolated islands of the Pacific feel that Americans are their friends. It is understood that President Cleveland and Secretary Bayard have outlined a policy for the nominal protection of these little neighbors of ours, and Congress will be asked to enact the necessary legislation to carry out the plan which it is proposed to adopt. It will not involve much expense and will be an official notice to Bismarck and other grasping diplomats to keep their hands off. King Kalakaua offers to defray the expense of keeping one first-class American war vessel at Honolulu constantly, but Uncle Sam, with both pockets full of silver, will stand the expenditure necessary if he consents to the protectorate. It may be a troublesome question before it is settled, as many fine international points must be considered.

Congress.

The Congress which meets next Monday is composed largely of new men. Of 325 members in the last Congress only 185 have been re-elected. The Democrats re-elected 112, the Republicans 73. Some of the new men have, however, been in Congress before. General Weaver, the Greenback candidate for the Presidency in 1880, was in the Forty-sixth Congress and will be in the Forty-ninth. Julius Caesar Burrows of Michigan is an old Congressman. The bulk of the new members to the present Congress, are, however, entirely new to Congressional service. The veterans, Randall, Kelly, Morrison and a few others, will maintain their ascendancy the more easily in a Congress composed largely of new men.

The "Queen of Sheba."

Goldmark's opera, "Queen of Sheba," by the German troupe, was the amusement sensation of New York City Thursday evening. Long before the performance every seat in the house was sold, and the largest and most brilliant audience of the season assembled. Though expectation had risen to so great a height it was in no degree disappointed, for, looked at from many sides, whether from a musical or dramatic standpoint or simply as regards the glitter of its stage pageantry, the opera is indeed a resplendent work of art.

Profits of Thirteen Acres.

Los Angeles Sentinel.

Mr. G. W. Wray, five miles east of Tulare, pastured 13 head of cows three months on 13 acres of alfalfa. He then took the stock off, allowed the alfalfa to make hay, and got 26 tons. The next crop went to seed and here are the returns from the entire crops: Twenty-six tons of hay at $4, $104. 11,558 pounds of seeds at 8 cents, $884 64; 13 tons of straw at $3.39; three months pasturage for thirteen head of cows at $1 50 per head, $53 50; total income, $1,106 14; expense of hauling, cutting and threshing, $326 50; net income, $779 64; or $76 15 per acre.

Try it on Washoe Lake.

A man in South Bend, Ind., goes duck shooting in an odd craft, which he calls an "invisible boat." He has cut one-third of an entire boat's length down to the water line. The remainder is made water-tight, and in the stern a mirror (twenty-eight inches high and forty-eight long) is placed so that the glass reflects the water in front and de-coys. Behind the mirror the hunter sits and paddles his boat toward the ducks, making his observations through a small spot in the mirror, from which the amalgam has been removed. As the boat moves up to the ducks they can see their own reflections in the mirror, and in some instances swim toward the boat. When the hunter is near enough to shoot he drops the mirror forward by loosening a string and gets two effective shots—one at the ducks on the water and one as they rise.

GOLD BEARING QUARTZ LEADS.

Prospectors Should Look at Those Abandoned in Early Days.

The Winnemucca Silver State says: In the early days of mining in Nevada, prospectors knew nothing of silver and the object of their search was gold. This search led to the discovery of the Comstock by men engaged in placer mining. In this county men engaged in herding stage stock discovered gold bearing quartz in the Humboldt range, in what was afterwards organized as Humboldt District. Specimens of gold bearing quartz from the discovered leads were taken to California and created much excitement among the gold miners in the mountain counties, many of whom came to Humboldt. Upon their arrival here, however, it was ascertained that the "black stuff" which gave the placer miners so much trouble in the gulches on the side of Mount Davidson, was silver ore and that the lead in which it was found was the richest ever discovered. This induced the prospectors in this county to abandon their search for gold and devote their attention exclusively to silver. Many leads, which had been located because gold was found in the outcrops, were abandoned, and the belief became general that no paying gold mine could be found in Nevada. Now, owing to the great depreciation in the price of silver, prospectors are paying more attention to gold bearing leads, and very many ledges of that character are being discovered in various parts of the State. Experience has demonstrated that the notion that gold did not exist in paying quantities in quartz leads east of the Sierra Nevada, was fallacious. Mines are being worked exclusively for gold in Nevada and are paying well. In view of these facts it would be advisable for prospectors to look at some of the leads located by early-day prospectors in this county. The croppings of many of them in Humboldt, Buena Vista, Sierra and other districts were rich in free gold, and there is no known reason why they should not be as rich under ground as they are on the surface. The cost of working gold quartz is less than that of working silver ore as in the case of gold the expensive amalgamating pans can be dispensed with, and there is no discount on gold bullion. There are doubtless many leads in the Humboldt and Dun Glen ranges, which were abandoned because the croppings contained no silver, though rich gold specimens were found in them, that will pay from $10 to $20 in gold per ton.

The Royal Baker and Pastry Cook.

A royal addition to the kitchen library. It contains over seven hundred receipts pertaining to every branch of the culinary department, including baking, roasting, preserving, soups, cakes, jellies, pastry, and all kinds of sweetmeats, with receipts for the most delicious candies, cordials, beverages, and all other necessary knowledge for the chef de cuisine of the most exacting epicure, as well as for the more modest housewife, who desires to prepare for her lord and master a repast that shall be both wholesome and economical. With each receipt is given full and explicit directions for putting together, manipulating, shaping, baking, and kind of utensil to be used, so that a novice can go through the operation with success, while a special and important feature is made of the mode of preparing all kinds of food and delicacies for the sick. The book has been prepared under the direction of Prof. Rudmani, late chef of the New York Cooking School, and is the most valuable of the recent editions upon the subject of cookery that has come to our notice. It is gotten up in the highest style of the printers art, on illuminated covers, etc. We are assured that every one of the "Royal Baking Powder" contains an order for one of these valuable books.

A fire in the meadow of Mr. Horton, down the valley, last week, came near reaching his haystacks and residence. By hard work and the assistance of his neighbors, all damage was averted. It is believed the fire was set by some malicious person or persons.

The "World's" Civil Service.

The New York World, in a double-headed column leader, defines its position on the Civil Service and says: We favor all Civil Service reforms such as the ascertainment of fitness and character before appointment to office, the fixing of tenure during good behavior, the prohibition of political assessments, the separation of partisan and public service and the prompt removal of incapable men. But before we can have fixity of tenure and non-partisanship there must be an equalization, purification and rectification of the public service to reorganize and reconcile to it all political parties and the whole people.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the Gould and Carry Mining Company will take place on the 21st of this month.
